Georgia's Mocking-Bird Sales

Many mocking-birds are shipped from Atlanta every season to the North and West. The young birds are caught by the hundred by small boys who fieldle them at fifty cents each. They are kept in their native clime until they are four or five months old and then are sent by express to all parts of the country. A good bird, four months old, is worth from $3 to $5. They sing well when a year old. It is astonishing to what extent their imitative faculties may be trained by patient ingenuity. There is a mocking-bird in Atlanta who whistles "Dixie," "Last Rose of Sum-

"How did you bring them about?" asked the Vice-President. "Well, sir, I bullt seven flirting pavilions, and seats for two; they are twenty feet high and are approached by winding stairs." tracks of the Washington & Georgetown Railroad from Second street to the Navy-Yard gate are undergoing repairs, and the road-bed is being relaid.

"But they seem rather exposed for lovers' retreats," I suggested.

"No, sir; not a bit. You see they hold only two. They are so high that no one can hear a word said in them. Now, our beautiful young ladies used to do their flirting on the balconies, but the trouble was curious old maids and mothers used to sit in the upper windows and listen to every word said. One old lady from St. Louis used to sit up all night and sleep daytimes so as to be posted about engagements."

e posted about engagements.

"But it is different now?" I suggested.

"Of course it is. The young lovers sitting up there," pointing to a pavilion, "command the situation. No one can approach without their knowing it, I have never known a young man to sit in these pavilions three nights with the for Pittsburg—10 a. m., 9:10 p. m.

"No, sir," said Mr. Proctor, in sur-prise. "That would b eak up all the lovers in Richfield. We call them wisdom seats. That disarms all the old women. When a sweet, beautiful young lady comes and twines her white bare arms around her mother's neck and says, 'Ob, mamma, George and I want to sit in the wisdom seats,' the old lady feels very proud. She says, 'Julia is so sensible. She's always trying to For Cincinnati, St. Louis and South-11 improve her mind,"

"And when they get up there-" "Who got up there?" interrupted the Vice-President. "Why, the lovers, of course. As I was saying, when they get up there and he takes her beautiful hand in his, and they both look solemnly at the railing while he tells the sweet tale of croedness!" exclaimed the Governor, his eyes moistening with tears, "don't go any farther. My young days all come back again."
